A one-day workshop exploring composing and improvising with children ages 5–11

CBSO Centre
Berkley Street
Birmingham
B1 2LF

This practical workshop is aimed at teachers and practitioners, generalists and specialists working musically with children in Key Stages 1 and 2 (ages 5–11) both in and out of school.

Many teachers feel unsure how to support children in composing their own music. Yet composition is the moment when children move beyond imitation and begin to use their musical skills independently — shaping rhythm, melody and texture through their own ideas.

Ofsted repeatedly identified composing as one of the weakest areas of music teaching in schools. This workshop explores practical, creative and fun ways to address this.

You will leave with practical strategies to support children's creativity and confidence, helping them become active musical thinkers rather than passive learners

ABOUT US

Orff Society UK is a non-profit organisation dedicated to promoting the Orff Approach to music and movement education. Our mission is to provide high-quality training and resources for educators while keeping our course fees as affordable as possible. We believe that every child deserves a creative and inclusive music education, and we support teachers in developing engaging, child-centred learning experiences. Through workshops, training courses, and community outreach, we aim to make the Orff Approach accessible to educators across the UK.

NADJA KRAFT

Nadja was born in Austria and did a Bachelor's and master's degree in Elemental Music and Dance Pedagogy at the Orff Institute in Salzburg.

She went on to study Early Childhood Music Education at the Sibelius Academy in Helsinki before coming to the UK in 2009.

Having led several workshops and music and movement classes in nursery settings and at Colourstrings Conservatoire, she is now teaching curriculum music, piano and has several children's choirs across 3 schools including a SEN setting.

She holds the role as Lead teacher for the Music's Cool programme at Harrow Music Service, which is part of the London West Music Hub.

We're delighted to be hosting this workshop at the CBSO Centre, home of the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra – an inspiring setting for a day of creative music-making.
